Three Hundred County Women March Against Polio In Annual Event Tonight

DEATH TAKES MINISTER

75 Years' Service Ended By Death Of M. E. Hulbert

After a lifetime spent in the ministry, the Rev. Maurice Edwin Hulbert, 98, was claimed by death Monday.

In failing health for the past two years, he died at his home early Monday.

A native of Champagne, Ill., he had been a resident of Escatawpa for 54 years. He was pastor of Escatawpa Baptist Church when he retired from the active ministry about 15 years ago.

He began his ministry in the North and came south about 1900 and served as pastor of churches in Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi.

Although he had had no formal charge since his retirement, he was frequently guest speaker at churches and other affairs and until the last year or two was asked to perform wedding ceremonies.

He devoted more than 75 years to the ministry and was one of the oldest ministers in the Baptist Church.

Funeral services were held Tuesday from Moss Point First (Continued on Page 8)

Three hundred Jackson County women will take part tonight in the annual "Mothers March on Polio."

Horns, whistles and sirens will signal start of the march at 7 p.m., said R. H. Burnie, Pascagoula, chairman of the county polio chapter.

Householders who want to contribute to the mothers will turn on their porch lights between 7 and 8 p.m.

Convassed will be Pascagoula, Moss Point, Ocean Springs, Krole, Escatawpa, Eastside and Bayou Casotte.

Area chairmen are Mrs. R. B. Perry, Pascagoula; Mrs. Gordon Hase, Moss Point; and Mrs. Horace Conti, Ocean Springs.

Saturday's March of Dimes feature will be a dance sponsored by American Legion Post 169 at the Pascagoula post home.

The dance will begin at 9 p.m.

Gulf Coast Council Names Guest Veep

W. R. Guest, Jr., of Pascagoula, is the new first vice president of the Gulf Coast Council of Chambers of Commerce.

He is president of the Pascagoula Chamber.

Other new officers are Ad Lang, Pass Christian, president, and Wallace Chapman, Biloxi, second vice president.

Ann Avent, manager of the Moss Point Chamber, is expected to be renamed secretary when the by-laws are changed to allow her to succeed herself.

Toastmaster Club May Be Formed

An organizational meeting of a Moss Point Toastmasters Club is scheduled for Monday, 7:30 p.m. at YMBC. The meeting will be open to all prospective members.

Duncan McDonald was chosen temporary chairman with Grover Brandt, Chatten Haynes, Ramesh Khayat, Tom Linder and E. E. Hughes serving currently in official capacity.

Haynes, Hughes and Brandt will speak at the Monday meeting. Khayat will be moderator with Linder as emcee.

'Total Recovery' Forseen For Lad With Brain Tumor

Robert M. Hudson, six-year-old son of the L. D. Hudsons of Moss Point, is recuperating from a delicate operation for the removal of a brain tumor last Wednesday in a Mobile hospital.

Robert is a first grade student at Charlotte Hyatt school. He became ill and was hospitalized at County Hospital for 16 days before the operation.

Hope is held for his complete recovery, according to the family, but he will be hospitalized for some time yet.

There are four other children in the family, ranging in age from five to 12.

Members of Eastside Baptist Church, of which the family are members, have started a "Robert Hudson Fund" to help defray medical expenses. The Rev. Rufus H. Bennett, pastor, is in charge of the fund.

Pool For Negroes Contract Awarded To G&K Company

G&K Construction Company, a local firm, was awarded a contract for building a swimming pool for Negroes at Pascagoula.

Included in the $53,025 contract will be adding a filter plant to the white pool.

Bids on the job were opened at a city meeting Jan. 18 but were held over in order to negotiate with G&K on coming within the amount earmarked from an $85,000 recreation bond issue.

G&K's original bid totaled $55,160—$19,084 for the white pool, $36,076 for the Negro.

Other bidders were:

H&F Construction, Jackson, $18,251, $37,645 totaling $55,896; J. E. Krebs, Pascagoula, $19,560, $36,494 totaling $56,054.

Smittie's Plumbing, Pascagoula, $18,999 for the white pool; Pressure Concrete, Florence, Ala., $21,472 for the white pool, and Bernard & Byrd, Mobile, $43,835 for the Negro pool.

trust law violations. The first last February resulted in a jury.

The indictments grew out of a waterfront blockade at Pascagoula more than three years ago by a group of Biloxiermen and association members.

Maximum penalty is a fine and 12 months in jail, both, US attorney Robert Hays said. The convictions can be appealed to a higher federal court.

Mrs. Lura Currier Native Of County Library Director

Lura Gibbons Currier, Pascagoula native, is the new director of the state library commission. She will assume the post today, succeeding Eunice Eley, recently resigned.

Mrs. Gibbons, for five years field representative for the mission, attended school in Pascagoula and graduated from Perkinson Junior College, Mississippi Southern.

She earned a degree in education at Texas College for women.

Her experience includes school teaching in Jack Harrison and Quitman Counties. Among her library positions were:

Librarian at Corpus Christi, Tex.; county librarian at Angelo, Tex.; public relations specialist in the Snohomish County library, Wash., and librarian at Mount Vernon, W.

Twice she received the Cotton Dana award for promotion, outstanding public relations programs, the highest honor in the field.

A brother, Vaughan Gibbons, lives at 915 Williams in Pascagoula.

and Mrs. J. V. Ainsworth of Moss Point.

The ceremony was performed before a setting of palms and polished magnolia and standards of white stock, chrysanthemums and pompoms. Pews held markers of white satin bows and pompons.

Mrs. Charles Walker, organist, played a program of music and accompanied the soloist.

The bride, escorted by her brother, Max L. Ainsworth of New Orleans, wore a blue-woolen Rentner original fitted costume suit with a matching small hat of the same material. Her accessories were navy and she carried a clutch bag ornamented with a cluster of orchids.

Attendants were Miss Patricia Edington, Deland, daughter of the groom, and Williams K. Simmons, St. Petersburg. Ushers were all from St. Petersburg.

Mrs. Ainsworth, mother of the bride, wore a blue-gray fitted suit with navy accessories and a purple orchid corsage.

A reception was held in the Duval wing of the church.

Mrs. Max M. Ainsworth was in charge of the bride's register.

Dr. Edington is pastor of First Baptist Church in St. Petersburg.

After a wedding trip to Florida, they will be at home in St. Petersburg.

Line the bottom and sides of a small casserole with baking powder biscuit dough (which has been rolled out thin). Fill with oyster mixture, top with more dough, press edges firmly together and make two or three slits in top to permit the escape of steam. Bake in hot oven 430 degrees F. for 15 minutes after which reduce to 350 degrees F. and bake 10-15 minutes longer. Serves 4.

Mobile has tried several times to buy my grandfather's portrait," Mrs. Pickett commented.

"They want it to fill in the missing parts in the history of Carnival," she added, "but I don't suppose we will ever part with it."

This year, when Mobile celebrates carnival Feb. 22, few people will know that it is exactly 103 years after the death of George Huggins, one of the spirited minded originators of this festive occasion.

Mother Nature and a thrust of foreign tail meat have seriously cut the profits of Acadiana crawfish farmers, but Benoit says he's optimistic about the outlook for the current season.

"Pond fishermen have been struggling to make ends meet for the past three seasons because of low prices," Benoit said. "Prices were driven down during that period because (Atchafalaya) Basin fishermen were able to harvest crawfish almost year-round until last year."

Benoit said high water conditions in the basin really began in 1992 following Hurricane Andrew and continued through the next spring and summer due to the record-breaking flooding in the nation's mid-section.

Also, crawfish producers have been fighting an influx of cheap Chinese crawfish tail meat, which has had a negative impact on prices for domestic producers and processors.

"Last year, it really looked like pond farmers were going to make a comeback but dry conditions during the summer seems to have hurt the brood stock at the beginning of the season," Benoit said.

"This year, a lot of farmers flushed (pumped water into) their ponds during the summer and it

U.S. 90 Lighting project finished ahead of schedule

BILOXI — A total of 119 new street lights along U.S. 90 from DeBuys Road to Beauvoir Road lit the way for travelers for the first time on Thursday night.

Mayor A.J. Holloway said the $250,000 Mississippi Power Company project was completed about a month ahead of time.

"This is an early Christmas present for the citizens of Biloxi," Holloway said. "We're quite happy that the power company was able to get in there and get the work done early. With the increased traffic on U.S. 90 it's very important that we do everything we can to improve the safety of this road. The completion of this project goes a long way to that end."

Holloway said he is hoping to announce plans soon for Phase 3, which will include lighting the area from Beauvoir Road to the Presidential Casino.

The DeBuys-Beauvoir project is the second phase of Biloxi's emphasis on highway lighting. The initial project was lighting Casino Row.

Three arrested at two Ocean Springs

OCEAN SPRINGS — Three women on an apparent Christmas shopping spree were arrested Tuesday by Ocean Springs police hitting two stores at I-10 and Square Shopping Center.

Police arrested the three women on charges of shoplifting from Gryder's through the China Wall.

Charged with shoplifting, Mary C. Lett, 24, and Sandra C. Lett, 24, and Sandra C. Lett, 24, both of 4900 Old Mobay, Pascagoula, and Denise Williams, 1524 R. Gautier. Bond for each was $738.

Officers were alerted to the shoplifting by saleswomen at Shoe Express, who thought the female shoppers were acting suspiciously. After they left without a purchase, they were caught with two empty shoe boxes.

Police said from Gryder's women headed for the nearby store. They were seen a short distance from the store.

Low pay may hurt faculty from

STARKVILLE, Miss. — Many Mississippi State University professors may opt to sit out the 1996 summer session in protest of salary scales offered for the period, a MSU Senate spokesman says.

The professors contend that the current pay scales for teaching classes lags behind the University of Mississippi.

"There will be some folks who will stay home and not come back," said Faculty Senate president Dan Embree. "The way to pay is a hard damn way to buck."

With fewer professors at the school, it could limit courses offered in the summer school, said Embree. He met for an hour Thursday with Derek Hodgson, Mississippi State provost, to discuss the problem.

"We are looking for a positive outcome at the moment," said an English professor. But it is tight. There is no doubt a hard time ahead.

proposed development on the west bank of the Pascagoula River costing in excess of $1-million. It would include a 500-foot concrete wharf and 440x180 concrete warehouse building.

The county authority would have supervision of the proposed $2-million Bayou Casotte industrial and port development project.

In testimony brought out before the Senate finance committee, local spokesmen said that the developments are necessary in order to obtain federal okay for maintenance of a 30-foot ship channel.

Expanding operations at Ingalls require extensive channel improvement which would be made possible if the proposed bill gains final approval, they said.

Appearing at Jackson on behalf of the bill were supervisors A. P. Morap, E. A. Khayat; W. R. Guest, president and Al Johnson, director, Pascagoula port commission; mayor Ed Wiggins, J. M. Dickens, Ingalls, and former state senator Hermes F. Gautier.

REV. M. E. HULBERT WRITES STORY FOR HOLLYWOOD

His Story, "Rahab the Harlot and the Scarlet Cord," Gets Favorable Report.

Rev. M. E. Hulbert of Escatawpa, has received word that his story with the above title has been accepted by the Universal Scenario Company of Hollywood, California, for representation in the Hollywood talking picture market. The report of the reading committee of the scenario company states that the story is well suited for presentation as a talking picture, since it offers a basis for picturesque settings, colorful and dramatic action, and telling sound effects. The reading committee's report is in part as follows:

"This story offers possibilities as a basis for a highly interesting talking picture, and should receive consideration from producers seeking this type of dramatic material.

"It is a spectacular drama with all the glamour of atmosphere, setting and characterization of the ancient Bible days. It offers opportunities for dramatic action, thrilling situations, telling sound effects and emphatic dialogue. This should appeal to some of the producers of thrilling features.

"The characterizations of Rahab and Salmon are suitable for portrayal by some of the more dramatic stars. In the opinion of the Committee, this colorful romance drama of the days of Jericho is undoubtedly backed up by actual knowledge of conditions as they exist in such circumstances. Thus it has the ring of convincingness.

"The characters are well drawn and the plot has been worked out with judgment. Incidents and situations appear logical and the continuity properly balanced. The climax is well developed and the interest sustained throughout. Thus the material is admirably suited to talking picture presentation.

"After careful consideration of the elements as set forth above this story is in the opinion of the Committee, suitable for synopsis adaptation from a talking picture angle."

Rev. Mr. Hulbert is to be congratulated, and his friends hope his picture will be produced and that it will be of great financial benefit to him.

AMERICA'S FIRST ROMANCE.

(By M. E. Hulbert)

"Stand by, Pocahontas, Powhatan has words to say—
He would talk about the pale-face John, you talked with today.
You seem to like this pale-face, your eyes turn his way,
Your lips seem to tremble. Would you go with him away?"

"See the braves around you who are strong and youthful hunters—
They will build a tepee for a wife, and want you, Pocahontas.
You are now so free, Pocahontas, to go and come and stay,
Powhatan sees the trees and hills in which you love to play.

"This pale-face John among us builds no tepee for a wife,
He is not brave like the Indian warrior who defends you with his life.
See your mother, Pocahontas, with a blanket over her head,
She mourns about this pale-face, she would rather you were dead.

"This pale-face John must suffer, the chief will take his life
He cannot take Pocahontas away to suffer as his wife.
Stand by, Pocahontas, you have heard words Powhatan gave,
Tomorrow e're the sun goes down, this John will have a grave."

"My father, Powhatan, a mighty brave, would you kill Pocahontas, then?
She loves the pale-face whom she would save above all other men.
She will give her life to save him, so beware my father, Powhatan,
When you lead the pale-face to death Pocahontas will be in the van."

The sound of tom-tom in the camp, as Indians restlessly move around,
With the pale-face John in fetters being marched to the rocky mound.
Powhatan, Indian Chief, leads the way in feather regal bedecked
The executioner and instrument of death closely follows his chief's track.

The tom-tom sounds out louder, the warriors circle in the dance of death.
While the pale-face, John, is securely fastened as he looks up in bated breath.
Powhatan lifts his arm, the executioner lifts the stone for the blow,
Pocahontas would save the man she loves, and falls across his brow.

Powhatan keeps his arms up as he cries out, "Spare the blow,
If Pocahontas would save John Smith, untie him and let him go.
He does not love Pocahontas but her love saved him today,
We will march him to the water and watch him sail away."

"Stand by, Pocahontas, your father, Powhatan, has words to say,
Many moons have come and gone since your mother passed away.
You are brave, Pocahontas, to ride through the great woods alone,
But take warning Pocahontas, we are all to trouble born.

"There are many eyes that watch you in the camp across the sand,
The pale-face there wants Powhatan to give up all the land.
Pocahontas, pale-face would take and hold you for the pipe of peace
Powhatan would have to move far away and all his claims release.

"Pocahontas no like brave warrior, like white man's ways,
You like his clothes, he no hunter, he idle all his days.
He much talk, shows his teeth, he carry his time on the end of a chain,
He carry no tom-a-hawk or spear, he carries a stick he calls a cane.

"To your tent Pocahontas, the night is so fair you would walk about,
The Warriors on watch tell me you in bright moon wander far out.
Beware, Pocahontas, Beware Powhatan, has too much trouble sent,
To be told some morning by the Warrior, Pocahontas no return to her tent."

Pocahontas turned to her tent by the lure of moon much brighter.
She falls upon her cot in sandals and clothes waiting for the camp to be quieter.
When the watchman on his rounds passes her tent she quietly steals out and away,
Down the path to the village she went to festivities so gay.

Reaching a place where the sound of music filled her spirit with joy,
She stopped in the road to tell the great spirit Pocahontas surely will die
In the camp like her mother, if Powhatan her father keeps her there.
Pocahontas would go far away to home of white man who is so fine and fair.

Following the lure of the music wafted out from the governor's home,
Pocahontas moved on quickly to the steps leading up to the room,
Up the steps she went and pushing through a crowd to a window on the right,
She stood in ecstasy and wonder at the happy faces and glowing light.

An Indian girl among Governor Argall's guests,
Is arrested by the guards at governor's request.
To the stockade they march her and take a room without light,
While John Rolfe carries to Powhatan, Pocahontas is a prisoner this night."

The news of Pocahontas captured, brought forth the tom-tom sound,
Powhatan and his warriors with the drums were gathered around;
With John Rolfe in the circle a prisoner unbound,
While angry squaws pointed the way to the rocky mound.

"Speak words pale-face, Powhatan would go to war,
The white man burn at stake if Pocahontas is kept up there."
"Listen Powhatan, Pocahontas, I will save. Send with me her two brothers,
You know I treat Indians right, I buy much furs from thee, and others."

The pipe of peace they smoke, Powhatan sends two sons with John,
Moving at night to save Pocahontas to reach the village at dawn.
Straightway to the governor's home went John Rolfe, with Powhatan's two sons, Demanding Pocahontas be brought without soldiers, without guns.

In the village is a marriage—John Rolfe and Pocahontas become man and wife.
The marriage brings peace to the whites and the Indians saving many a life.
Both whites and Indians march to the village to see John, Pocahontas, and son, Sail away to John Rolfe's country, and from which he come.

Many summers and winters have passed since John and Pocahontas were wed,
The tom-tom is heard again in the camp, but now Pocahontas is dead.
Her tomb is in the village, and the Indians guard the resting place,
John Rolfe and his son and wife, and the brave and the true.

A noble man is loved, and honored by all,
All to the training of his sons, great and tall,
Through the passing years Pocahontas is known in life,
And dead, yet speaketh, through the 28th President's wife.

Port Bill...

proposed development on the west bank of the Pascagoula River costing in excess of $1-million. It would include a 500-foot concrete wharf and 440x180 concrete warehouse building.

The county authority would have supervision of the proposed $2-million Bayou Casotte industrial and port development project.

In testimony brought out before the Senate finance committee, local spokesmen said that the developments are necessary in order to obtain federal okay for maintenance of a 30-foot ship channel.

Expanding operations at Ingalls require extensive channel improvement which would be made possible if the proposed bill gains final approval, they said.

Appearing at Jackson on behalf of the bill were supervisors A. P. Moray, E. A. Khayat, W. R. Guest, president and Al Johnson, director, Pascagoula port commission; mayor Ed Wiggins, J. M. Dickens, Ingalls, and former state senator Hermes F. Gautier.

$100 damage to foodstuffs. However, he told Sullivan, an inventory is in progress to determine how much was actually stolen. Approximately $15 was taken in change, part of which was from a drink machine.

In addition to other damage, the burglars attempted entering a safe, and bunged up the container. Entry was unsuccessful. It contained over $2000, Sullivan quoted the manager.

Many sets of finger prints were taken, necessitating a process of elimination, Sullivan explained. The prints were sent to the FBI and word is expected back next week.

Pas Garden Club Show Date Near; Slated At Center

Pascagoula Garden Club will present its annual camellia show Wednesday at the Women's Club Center, officials said today.

The blooms will be exhibited in three classifications, specimen blooms, arrangements and corsages, developing the theme of the show, "A Camellia Valentine."

Anyone may exhibit blooms at the show which is not restricted to camellias alone, Mrs. Norman Lyons, general chairman said.

All entries must be entered between 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. the day of the show. The show will be open to the public from 1 p.m. until 6 p.m. There are no admission charges and refreshments will be served.

LEAVES FOR COAST

Adm. and Mrs. Charles D. Dean left Tuesday to return to their home in San Francisco after a visit of several weeks with her mother, Mrs. O. L. White, and Miss Lola Depree in Pascagoula.

On a soil where a hardpan of limited thickness existed, deep tillage increased cotton yield by more than 166 pounds of seed cotton per acre according to the Delta Branch Experiment Station.

Acting Jackson police chief returns to work

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Acting Jackson Police Chief Jim French has returned to work following surgery to remove a benign tumor from his pituitary gland, which is attached to the brain.

French, who is a candidate to fill the top post permanently, underwent surgery two weeks ago. He said surgery was scheduled just days after the tumor was discovered.

Doctors at Baptist Medical Center in Jackson removed the tumor on June 26. French said there is a possibility the tumor could return and he'll need periodic checkups to monitor his condition.

"I feel better than I have for four or five years," French said Monday.

The tumor hemorrhaged several years ago, French said, causing him to experience sight problems in his right eye and swollen joints. Numerous tests didn't reveal the tumor until an eye doctor found it last month, French said.

About the size of a pea, the pituitary gland is a small organ at the base of the brain. The gland produces hormones affecting growth and the functions of other glands in the body, according to the National Institute of Neurological Disorders and Stroke.

DEQ grants for household waste disposal, recycling

The Mississippi Commission on Environmental Quality has awarded a $25,200 grant to Jackson County and an $18,888 grant to George County/Lucedale for a one-day household waste disposal and recycling program.

The city of Brookhaven also received a $30,000 grant.

The grants are funded through the Department of Environmental Quality's "Right-Way-to-Throw-Away" Program.

Jackson County has scheduled their one-day collection program for Nov. 11 in Ocean Springs. George County will hold its program on Nov. 4.

Collection days provide an opportunity for citizens to dispose of household hazardous waste such as batteries, tires, paints and pesticides. There will be no charge to local residents, and an exact listing of acceptable and unacceptable items will be released later.

The DEQ's program is available
